DO'S and DON'TS for Parents and Coaches

- DO stress having FUN
- DO offer suggestions and advice
- DO offer considerable praise and encouragement
- DO award participation
- DO involve parents
- DO use the 3 C's when providing instructions – clear, concise, and correct.
- DO practice the 4 C's of coaching – competence (developing skills), care (show them they have value beyond basketball), confidence (develop the belief that the child can do a skill), and commitment (will be developed in the child when the other three things occur)
- DON'T shout negative comments to any child
- DON'T allow lopsided games
- DON'T keep score or award winning
- DON'T shout instructions at the player with the ball; he/she has enough to worry about
- DON'T shout instructions like send it, boot it, or pass it – allow the child to practice good decision making and ball control
- DON'T get upset if they don't pass – let them dribble
- DON'T use the 3 L's – lines, laps, and lectures

Practice Organization

- Practices should consist of age-appropriate FUN games and activities that encourage participation. Try to incorporate skill development into basketball related games.
- The coach must be a facilitator, a friendly helper, an organizer, and a stimulator, while being patient, enthusiastic, and imaginative. The sky is the limit.
- Practices should be no more than 75 minutes once or twice a week and should be organized in a progressive manner, i.e., warm up, then individual activities, then group activities.
- Gear sessions around touching the ball as many times as possible. Involve the ball in as many activities as possible.
- Children play basketball to learn basketball, they learn by doing. If there is not enjoyment there is no learning.
- Keep things moving quickly and use activities that avoid lines.
- Have as many activities ready as possible in one hour. Emphasis needs to be on what is FUN.

- Participate in all warm-ups and activities. Have the kids hold a ball for the stretches to increase fun and familiarization with the ball.
- Exaggerate your motions to illustrate a technique or proper procedure.
- Basketball skills are most effectively developed in game-related situations: incorporate many small-sided games.
- Each practice should be used to teach one technique or skill, e.g., shooting, passing or dribbling.
- Plan at least four 90 second water breaks.
- Practices should always end on a FUN, high-note so that the children do not want to stop and look forward to the next practice. Handing out a treat to each child at the end of practice with words of encouragement is always a nice way to end.

NOT APPLICABLE AS OF JANUARY 9, 2023

FACE COVERINGS ARE REQUIRED FOR ALL PLAYERS, COACHES AND SPECTATORS DURING PRACTICES AND GAMES INDOORS! THIS IS A REQUIREMENT BY THE STATE OF ILLINOIS.

- If a player is not wearing/refuses to wear a face covering over the nose and mouth:
  - The officials will give the team as a whole 1 warning and will give the specific kids not following the rules an individual warning. After the individual warning the officials will begin telling coaches which children are not following the rules and the child will sit out.
  - If a face covering falls during a play the officials will not stop the game and make the player fix their mask, they will allow the play to be completed.
  - If a player has a medical condition and an exemption letter from their doctor, the coach needs to show the letter to the officials with the number of the player exempt and the player will be excused from wearing the face coverings during play. A letter must also be provided to the GPRD Office.
- If a coach is not wearing/refuses to wear a face covering over the nose and mouth:
  - The coach will also be given 1 warning and will be asked to fix their face covering over their nose and mouth
  - If they still refuse, they asked to sit out the remainder of the game.
- If the coach is talking to the team or yelling to the kids on the field they can pull the face covering forward away from their face and place it back in its position when finished.

COACHES: PLEASE SET AN EXAMPLE FOR THE KIDS! WE ARE HERE FOR THEM, IT IS THEIR TIME! THIS IS THE ONLY WAY WE CAN GET THEM OUT AND PLAYING CURRENTLY.
